

Christian Sayings

It pays to be a winner.

The only limitations I have are the ones I put on myself and God.

I will never quit. I will not fail.

I train for spiritual war and fight the good fight of faith to win.

I persevere and thrive in adversity, because of the Greater One in me.

I have orders from the Word. I will take charge, be led by the Holy Spirit, and accomplish my mission.

Uncompromising integrity is my standard.

I am never out of the spiritual fight.

All in, all the time. If knocked down, I will get back up. Every time.

It's not what I preach, it's what I'm willing to tolerate.

Instead of letting situations dictate my decisions, I will dictate situations with the Word.

I learned to see results, it requires belief in the Word and unyielding perseverance to achieve victory, particularly when doubters question whether my victory is even possible.

No matter what, they can't kill me, that's against God's rules.

I am comfortable being uncomfortable.

My greatest weapon against stress is being able to choose one thought over another.

I only have three choices in faith: give up, give in, or give it all I have.

My faith is on time, on target, and I never quit.

Cowards never start, the weak never finish, and winners never quit.

I will never let my mind tell me to give up, even if my body is beaten down.

I don't let quitting enter my mind, it is a sickness that will weaken me.

I can't quit. I'm not dead.

The key to making it all the way is to keep a positive attitude at all times.

Anything that can go right will go right.

Anything that can go right will go right, and at the best possible time.
